Session 2: Friday, Feb 7 from 8:30 AM to 5:30 PM

WHY COACHING?

Flourish will offer a Coach Training certification process through Coach Net International because of our commitment to equip leaders and provide resources that nurture flourishing ministry within ECO.

Having a coach can be a powerful asset in ministry and discipleship. More and more, pastors and ministers recognize the value of a quality coach to equip them to cultivate skills, lead staff, mentor young leaders, mobilize volunteers and teams more strategically, and improve as a counselor.

COACH TRAINING PROCESS

The Flourish Coach Training Process uses curriculum developed by CoachNet for an initial level of training that takes about six months to complete. Upon completion of the training, participants receive certification through CoachNet. Coaches who wish to continue on in their training may inquire about further training through International Coaching Federation. Credentialed coaches, displaying exemplary skills, may be added to an ECO resource list of recommended coaches to assist congregations, pastors, MAGs, and other ministry leaders in a variety of ministry contexts. Some people may be able to apply the coach training process for M.Div or D.Min credit.

Mentorship

Coaching cannot be learned only in a seminar. Participants will be coached themselves and practice coaching on others. They will then reflect and build on those coaching experiences with other participants and work closely with Coach Mentors.

Coach Mentors are ICF accredited coaches who are part of a nationwide group which works to train new coaches. Participants interact with their coach mentors to learn principles in Coaching 101, receive feedback on their skills, and refine their coaching techniques.

Orientation

Participants attend a two-day orientation seminar for in-depth training and to practice coaching competencies.

Development

After the two-day orientation, participants coach two individuals on a monthly basis for six months. Between each coaching session, participants continue to dialogue with their own Coach Mentor individually and in groups for mentoring to grow in their coaching skills.
