Course Description

There are many roles that ministers play – teacher, preacher, equipper, pastor, shepherd, etc. Today a congregation yearns for the role of skilled servant leader in a congregational context. As the North American church leaves the context of Christendom behind and heads into a more missionary encounter with the culture, ministers need to gain experience in leading change. Making changes in congregations is a very complicated venture, requiring many different facets of leadership. In this course, we will examine the elements of leadership in a Christian context from a biblical and historical basis. Particular focus will be upon self-understanding, and what parts of leadership will be natural and which ones will need to be acquired.

Course Objectives

- 1) Grow in self-awareness and social awareness
- 2) Grasp the Christian character and values needed for effective leadership
- 3) Begin to reflect on personal leadership styles and strengths
- 4) Examine biblical and historical examples of leadership
- 5) Grow in understanding the leadership needs of a church and/or a Christian ministry

Last updated: April 21, 2020

- 6) Begin to learn how to practice leadership and visioning in the context of a congregation
- 7) Understand the difference in tactical and adaptive change and identify where to use each

Cheating and plagiarism are considered serious breaches of personal and academic integrity. Cheating involves, but is not necessarily limited to, the use of unauthorized sources of information during an examination or the submission of the same (or substantially same) work for credit in two or more courses without the knowledge and consent of the instructors. Plagiarism involves the use of another person's distinctive ideas or words, whether published or unpublished, and representing them as one's own instead of giving proper credit to the source. Plagiarism can also involve over-dependence on other source material for the scope and substance of one's writing. Such breaches in academic standards often result in a failing grade as well as other corrective measures.
